Christian Baden, Chair

- The network has at this point 216 members, and counting.
- We have arrived at the point where useful outputs arise from our joint work, and we need to make sure they are made useful, both within the network, and beyond it.
- We encourage attendees to visit and interact with other WGs, use the outputs created by others, and initiate a conversation between all WGs and groupings
- We also encourage everyone to make outputs available and usable to others: Use the Slack channel and our website to present what you have created.
- Make use of OPINION's resources to advance your collaborations: use STSMs, use the project space at meetings, use the communication channels

6 WG SESSIONS: WG2 TOOLS

We are now working on all deliverables in parallel:

2.1 (Inventory of existing tools): we are entering the data analysis and writing up phase. Felicia has volunteered to organise/do the data analysis; Christina volunteered to organize the writing up

2.2 (Joint publication on strategies and recommendations for the automated extraction of textually expressed opinions): we have started to flesh out our ideas. Initially, Damian lead the charge on this, but the newly joined Peter has volunteered to take over during Day 2 of the meeting

2.3 (Online teaching material): we already have material, but it needs to be formalized, which Jelena volunteered to see through in collaboration with WG4

Day 1

After an update from Johannes on the ongoing tasks and the Deliverables, we spent the rest of our time brainstorming about D2.2. The rough idea we developed in Salamanca was “develop a checklist or decision tree(-ish) guideline/paper, focusing on which theoretical and conceptual consideration should translate to which methodological choices”. We took advantage of the different experiences and technical knowledge in the group to discuss what people in the field need (demand) and what is already available (supply). The result of the brainstorming can be seen below:

Day 2

On Day 2 we worked on different tasks in several groups:

Data Analysis (lead: Felicia)

The data analysis team (Felicia Loecherbach and Olga Zagovora) worked on the raw data that came out of the annotation of studies from D2.1. They systematized the coding categories and produced some initial figures and tables for our paper. This provided input to the tool group (5, led by Fabienne Lind), gave a first overview of evaluations and targets of opinion research as well as geographical/language distribution of the papers collected. They planned their next steps in an issue in our Github repository.

Writing Organization (lead: Christina)

The writing organization team (Christina Viehmann, Srdjan Vesic and Bruno Yun) assessed the state of our paper draft and planned the next steps with bullet points in this document and an issue in our Github repository. They also developed an abstract for the paper and submitted it to the Comptext conference.

Recommendation Paper/D2.2 (lead: Peter/Damian)

The team focusing on systematizing our brainstorming session (Damian Trilling, Peter Maurer, Aleksandra Urman, Sjoerd Stolwijk, Michaela Maier, Shubin Yu, Jelena Gledić) discussed the organization of the paper, which points should be included, and developed an abstract that was submitted to the Comtext conference. A closed slack channel (#wg2-recommendation-paper) as well as an Overleaf-document were created. Peter will draft a rough structure of the paper in the Overleaf document and set up a meeting to discuss next steps.

Organization of Teaching Materials/D2.3 (lead: Jelena)

The team which volunteered to organize the teaching materials (Jelena Gledić) met with WG4 to discuss how our materials could be organized and published. WG4 agreed to create a website for the learning materials and consider whether they need to be further adapted. Jelena developed a suggestion for a template text that would be included before all materials, outlining the details of their creation, purpose, use etc. and sent it to WG4, along with the existing materials and a suggestion for systematization provided by Bruno Yun. WG4 confirmed the receipt of the materials and will inform WG2 about the progress.

Add Tools to Meteor (lead: Fabienne)

The team (Fabienne Lind, Julia Gottstein, Roksana Gloc, Kinga Adamczewska) systematically reviewed all tools identified in scientific articles to assess their relevance for inclusion in Meteor. For tools deemed relevant, the team verified whether they were already available in Meteor. A new collection of opinion mining tools was established on Meteor, with the relevant tools linked to this collection. For tools not yet present in Meteor, the team agreed on a process to add them as new entries in the coming weeks.

8 WG SESSIONS: WG4 INCLUSION & DISSEMINATION

Lyon Meeting - WG4 notes

Monday 13th January, 2025

First session

Carlos outlined the work plan for the Lyon meeting

Mariken informed that the program for the training school is made

Tomorrow - first session - we are going to talk about master classes to offer more online lectures

To talk about ongoing projects, which publications we can have and initiating new ideas

Deliverable that is left for us is a White paper - we are going to use session to distribute responsibilities for that

Initiation of the new projects from WG4 - making consortium for EU project or something like that - to make a research-based project as an outcome of this network

Possible publication of the handbook of the opinion analysis (dissemination outcome)

Mariken explained the ideas for the next training school, and why the decision was not to make another survey among the network members

Mariken reminded us about the idea for the Master class about ethics and legal issues - Emese Domahidi and Dana Guy

Guest speaker for the master class in Albania - gender balance (female speakers) we need that in time so people can plan things, during this session we can start working on that

Training school in Albania - Harmful opinions using the methods

- Introduction lecture - Mariken and Carlos
- Multi modal analysis -
- Multi lingual analysis -
- Social network analysis -
- Algorithmic biases -

We were discussing the structure of the Copa in Albania

Listed names for the trainers

Projects

Computational literacy

Outreach

Opinions in EU - with some WG2 members, ICA paper

Opinions by youngsters

Pros and cons of using SM, David and Mariken

White paper, coordinated by David and Mariken

Carlos will send the link, for the paper published in Conversation

Academic paper - Ljubisa, will send the link for the paper that was submitted to the journal for review

Dana's initiative for making a spreadsheet with relevant conferences of the network

Second session

Proposals of the trainers for the training school in Albania - brainstorming names

All from the network

Multi-modal analysis - Anderu Casas, maybe Dimitra Milioni, Savvas Yannettou

Multi-lingual analysis Fabiene Lind, Sean Palicki, Akos Mate

SNA - Kinga Adamczewska, Bruno Ferreira Costa

Algorithmic biases - Alexandra Urman, Ajumand Yunas

Carlos - where do we find harmful opinions online - online master lecture, new API of meta, and other platforms, which can be used for scraping with approval, Dana will send the invitation, and be support for the Carlos, maybe Carlos could make a couple of slides we can distribute to participants, and add to the GitHub page

This could be for the whole network and also not less important for the training school participants

Then we proceeded to making the program for the school

Discussing precise timeline

Tuesday, 14th January

First session

Proposal from the WG2 – codes that are in GitHub already, that we can add to a new GitHub of OPINION and make it available in that way

Teaching and training material produced for the training school, GitHub account – OPINION (gmail account with project name and descriptions for all the material Dana will make and upload while Jelena will send us the templates for describing the material)

We have a YouTube channel

GitHub page – learning resources (or teaching resources)

Jelena Gledic will communicate the general theme of the next training school to WG2, and let us know if someone will take up teaching at the training school in Albania

Projects

Harmful speech – radicalization, polarization... for Horizon

David presented where the project about computational literacy of opinion research scholars

Ljubisa informed us about the outcomes of the project that he started in Salamanca about differences between people and LLMs, one paper is already published in archive, and is under consideration for publication, 4 other papers have been initiated and in progress

David informed us about the progress of the White paper that he is working on with Mariken

Master class for the next meeting, discusses, to prevent issues of finding one in time, we want to have women, local speakers and that it is often challenging, self-proposed speaker – misinformation and Russian narratives, he could be speaker for the master class in Albania,

Carlos proposed that we do content analysis and annotation approach that could be interesting for the computer scientists, it could be September, so we can look for names, or someone that could speak about legal and ethical issues, to realize two master classes after Elbasan,

Physical meeting of the WG4, proposing Malaga as potential destination, depending on the budget and overall network plans.

LinkedIn account, for informing people about our activities, glossary, white papers, academic papers (as a way of promoting outcomes of the Action), do we need a policy on what goes on the LinkedIn page,

For example, WG1 has outputs on our webpage but we should do something - promoting our papers, for example in research gate or LinkedIn account

Potential events at conferences, for example Carlos's masterclass could be repeated at other places, for example

Hackathon was challenging, it did not run good for 4 people

If anyone want to join, how LLMs can be used to identify opinion within the textual posts on social media

New initiative for the project that is based on twitter data about migration, so we propose WG4 meeting to work on that project, developing annotation for the data, that will be focused on distinguishing opinion from facts about migration, and evaluating how efficient LLMs are for that, outcome will be to showcase our study and knowhow about tools that could be used for future research regarding identifying and evaluating opinion regarding migration

9 CLOSING PLENARY SESSION

Christian Baden, Chair

- Each WG reported on the progress made during the meeting (see minutes above), as well as the next steps to be expected toward our upcoming meeting in Elbasan, Albania
- There will be a training school at Elbasan, COpA 2, which will focus on four main themes: Multi-modal analysis, Multi-lingual analysis, Social network analysis, and algorithmic bias. The training school will take place on 28-29 May. OPINION Members will be able to receive reimbursement for their participation. If there is additional space, we may open the event to outside participants, too.
- OPINION recognizes as official publications (upon request) any publications created by the WGs, or arising from collaborations that involve at least three members at different institutions, endorsed by at least one WG as relevant. Beyond this, OPINION can offer support for Open Access publishing if publications involve authors from three different COST member countries (or two and a near neighbor country), or arise from a STSM. But please notify us in time, so we can plan.
- OPINION has commenced a webinar series, hosted by Elena Negrea Busuioc
- OPINION will release a podcast series, hosted by Emese Domahidi, Mario Haim, and Wendo King'Ang'i.
- Upcoming conferences that may be of interest to the network include the 7th COMPTXT conference in Vienna, the ECREA Political Communication Section Conference in Innsbruck, and other events
- The reimbursement procedure has changed a bit, in ways detailed in the program booklet. In essence, everything starts as always, but after we and COST have approved all reimbursement claims, VU Amsterdam will send participants a link with another form, which requires the same sum and documentation again.
- Finally, a huge thanks to the wonderful local organizer team, headed by Bruno Yun, for a perfectly organized meeting!
